The News.

The returns of the recent elections indicate the entire overthrow of the Democracy in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa. We have not very complete returns from Iowa, but thus far they show a handsome Republican gain and indicate the election of both the Republican candidates for Congress. The defeat of the Democrats in Old Berks county, Pennsylvania, is one of the greatest political victories ever achieved, and no less gratifying is the result in Old Hamilton county, the stronghold of the Ohio Democracy. We see no reason to change our opinion in regard to the result in Indiana. In short the Administration has received its final blow, and the Locomotonites are routed at every point.

The Society Islands have submitted an official document to our Government, proposing their anexation to the United States.

The loss of life by the explosion of the Havana Arsenal, it has been ascertained, was 112.

An affray occurred at the Tennessee State Fair, in which one person was killed, another mortally wounded, and several severely injured.

The New York and Buffalo breadstuffs markets were without important change. Our own market was also unchanged.

Weather clear and cool.

Judge Larrabee's Modesty (?)

The supposition of the Free Democrat that the correspondent who does the puffing for Judge LARRABEE under various non de plumes was none other than the Judge himself, may, or may not, be correct. Certain it is, the Judge is none too modest for such business. The Tribune thus sketches one of Judge LARRABEE's "favorable allusions" to himself, in a recent speech at Manitowoc:

After referring to his "former course" till his hearers were tired of the expression, the more so as he is so little known that few knew what he "former course" was, he at last remarked that he "did not wish to be accused of vanity, but he really thought he was the best man for the position he was seeking that there was in the district." Whether he intended this as a compliment to the district, or believed with the preacher that "all is vanity," we know not; but certainly if he is the best man in this District for a seat in Congress, we would give considerable to see the worst. Vain Judge.

Of all the causes which conspire to blind
Man's erring judgment and misguide the mind,
What the worst head with strongest bias rules,

A Glorious Triumph.

The defeat of the Democrats in Old Hamilton County, the stronghold of the Ohio Democracy, is no less gratifying than the result in Berks County, Pennsylvania. Such a victory was hardly looked for. In speaking of the result in Old Hamilton, the Cincinnati Gazette says:

The great Democratic stronghold has at last been taken, never more, we trust, to fall into the hands of the routed and scattered enemy. Right and justice will gain a still firmer hold upon the minds of the people, as increasing light is shed on the corruptions and flagrant wrongs of the party which now lords it over the nation. As the years roll on, our cause will grow stronger, and our majorities will swell still higher. The tide once completely turned, as it now is, there is no hope in the future for the party which has so repudiated all its pledges, and so grossly perverted its power. There is no resurrection to the Administration faction in Hamilton County, from such a defeat as it suffered yesterday. Its chastisement is a fatal one. It can never regain what it has lost. Buchananism, here, is defunct for all time. Under the Douglas garb, our opponents may still linger on, and even revive a little, but Locomptonism has deceased.

From the returns it will be seen that the Opposition have made a clean sweep, through the county. Our entire ticket is elected by not far from one thousand majority.

The whole ticket, for county officers, without a scratch, is carried by an unexpected majority. This is triumph enough for one day, had we no other to rejoice over.

THE LOST AERONAUT.—Since the commencement of the search for the remains of Mr. THURSTON, the lost aeronaut, in the swamps of Michigan and Canada, two bodies have been found, but neither were identified as that of Mr. THURSTON. A correspondent of the Detroit Free Press, reflecting on his sad fate, has been induced to compute the time he would be in falling to the earth; his mean velocity, as well as the momentum with which he would strike the earth. His elevation was thought to be three miles when he was last seen, and assuming this to be the distance he fell, it would only require thirty-one and a half seconds for him to reach the earth, a mean velocity of 495 feet per second. Assuming his weight to be 160 lbs., he would strike the earth with a momentum equal to 160,800 pounds, or a little more than 80 tons, a power sufficient to scatter his body, bone and muscle, into atoms so minute as scarcely to be perceptible, if not to bury him deep into the earth.

☞ The Democratic Party has had four different doctrines on Slavery: 1st, the Jeffersonian, which secured Territorial Freedom everywhere; 2nd, the Missouri Compromise, which gave Freedom a part and Slavery a part; 3d, Popular Sovereignty, allowing Settlers to admit or exclude Slavery, as they please; 4th, the Dred Scott decision, which establishes Slavery everywhere. These four changes in forty years, show "improvement for the worse," steady and rapid!

POOR CONSOLATION.—In acknowledging the defeat of the Democracy in Pennsylvania and Ohio, the Madison Argus consoles itself thus:

"If New York and Illinois were to be heard from, we would have a different story from that of Pennsylvania and Ohio."

It were a pity to deny the Democracy what little comfort they can extract from this assurance. The delusion is destined to be short-lived, at best.

A Case Before a County Justice.

MR. EDITOR—Dear Sir:—I send you a case not to be found in any published reports of Judicial proceedings; nor can any similar case be found since the days of black letter learning.—The prosecution was for Assault and Battery:

"Sept. 10 1858.—The State of Wisconsin vs. JAMES CROMMIE. Defendant claimed that complainant has sworn a Lie Bill against himself—what is at the Justice ARNOLD's Records:—therefore defendant claimed that Mr. MELONIE's, (who was the complaining witness,—Reporter) oath is not lawful He Mr. RICHARD LEWIS, Swor. the following Oath in Relation to Melonie's Lie Bill:

I do solemnly swear that Mr EDWARD MELONIE took and went under the act of a Lie Bill against him self before Justice ALANSES ARNOLD of the Town of Fredonia, So help you God, Signed by Mr. LEWIS.

Dated Fredonia, Sept. 22, 1858.

JOHN F WADWITZ Justice"

"Whereupon," the Reporter adds, "the point being argued Mr. SEDGWIS, who said that a man cannot vote who has signed a "Lie Bill", so he cannot swear,—for if he could swear, then he might swear in his vote. The justice being convinced by such a true argument, dismissed the defendant, though it was plain that Mr. MELONIE had been much hurt. The bystanders did much wonder that there be such curious things in the law."

This Reporter, who seems to be a quaint fellow, is absent now from the State, but he has left some manuscripts of curious cases, decided as he has written upon the envelop, by those knowledgeous persons high Country Justices." To those manuscripts I have access, and may occasionally send you a copy. CLOVES.

A BULLION BANK IN NEW YORK.—The proposition to establish a bullion bank with a capital of $1,000,000 in New York, meets with favor.—The proposition is that the bank shall discount to the extent only of its capital. It is to receive deposits and pay the checks of the depositors precisely as do our other banks; but the deposits not being lent out, will be, of course, always on hand in coin. Each depositor will be charged a small banking commission. The highest commission proposed is one-tenth of one per cent on small accounts; or in other words, a person having an income of $6,000, would pay $5 a year for keeping his bank account, and having his money always on hand in coin.

☞ The Atlantic Telegraph Company, although they are doing no business, are making some money. They have lost their copper wire in the Atlantic, but they have found a lead mine in Newfoundland. Since they cannot work the one, they are working the other. It is said they have a hundred and fifty men digging ore, and two or three vessels carrying it to New York.—Their fifty square miles of land promises to be worth more than their fifteen hundred miles of cable.

☞ The Overland Mail Route to California, whose practicability is now demonstrated, runs from California along the 32d parallel of latitude to Fort Smith in Arkansas; there divides, one branch running to Memphis, Tenn., and the other to St. Louis, Mo. Mails from both those points started for San Francisco on the 16th of September, the same day on which the mail for the east left California, and doubtless have arrived there about this time.

ACTION OF THE STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY IN RELATION TO PROF. WM. H. RAREY.—We copy the following from the minutes of the State Agricultural Record, at the close of the State Fair:

Resolved, That Prof. W. H. Rarey, of Ohio, in his exhibition of Horse Taming, as given at the recent State Fair in Wisconsin, was eminently successful; and that the Executive Committee of the Wisconsin State Agricultural Society would commend the system, as taught by Prof. Rarey, to the favorable consideration of all persons interested in that noble animal, the Horse.

Resolved, That, in consideration of the great value to the world, of Prof. Rarey's system of educating the Horse, and of our high esteem for him, as a man, this society presents to him a Gold Medal of the value of fifty dollars, with appropriate devices.

Resolved, That the President and Secretary be, and they are hereby directed to procure said medal, and transmit the same, with a copy of the above resolutions to Prof. Rarey, with all convenient dispatch.

A DUEL IN CHICAGO.—The Chicago Journal of Wednesday evening says:

A legitimate, bona fide duel took place this morning, upon the Garden City Race Course, between a financier of this city, and a clerk at one of our hotels. The wounded honors were occasioned by a lady, as usual. A formal challenge was passed, and Colt's revolvers were the weapons selected. To make the affair still more interesting, $100 were put up as a forfeit, in case either party backed out, and one of them slept on the field the night to be in readiness.

The parties met this morning upon the race course, armed and equipped as the code directs. At the given signal, the principals took deadly aim and fired at each other, but neither was hit. The seconds declared the affair honorably adjusted, and the principals left for the city uninjured, except that neither of them can hold office after this. We congratulate them that they have no need of a coroner.

THE OVERLAND MAIL AND THE PRESIDENT.—On the arrival of the Overland Mail at St. Louis, Mr. Butterfield, the President of the Company, telegraphed the fact to the President, who responded by telegraph as follows:

WASHINGTON, Sat. Oct. 9, '58.

John Butterfield, Pres't, &c.:

SIR:—Your dispatch has been received. I cordially congratulate you upon the result. It is a glorious triumph for civilization and the Union. Settlements will soon follow the course of the Road, and the East and the West will be bound together by a chain of living Americans, which can never be broken. JAMES BUCHANAN.

FIRE.—A destructive fire occurred at Hubbleville on Thursday last, destroying two dwelling houses and personal property to quite an extent. The fire occurred on the premises owned by Wm. H. Bourne, and broke out in the house occupied by Oswald Seigel. It was not long in communicating to an adjoining building, as the wind was blowing strongly at the time, and both were soon levelled to the ground. The steam saw mill and blacksmith shop on the same premises were in great danger, and probably would have burned but for the extraordinary efforts made by the citizens to save them. Mr. Segel's loss, also, will be felt severely, as he saved but few of his personal effects, and lost besides quite an amount in bank bills, which were all his savings from many years of hard, industrious toil.—Watertown Dem., Oct. 14.

THE DES JARDINES BRIDGE ON FIRE.—We learn from a gentleman who arrived from Toronto last evening, that when he passed the Des Jardines Bridge at Hamilton, it was on fire, and the train was delayed an hour before the flames could be extinguished. The wind was blowing very fiercely at the time. The fire caught, it was supposed, from a spark from a locomotive.—Buffalo Courier, Saturday.

Corn Exchange Meeting.

A meeting of our grain dealers was held last night, at the office of D. P. HULL & Co., in the basement of the Newhall House, for the purpose of hearing the reports of the various committees appointed at a previous meeting, and of taking into consideration the propriety of re-organizing the Corn Exchange. A very decisive disposition was manifested on all hands to have the Board thoroughly re-organized, and the action of the meeting upon all matters of importance which came before it, was as harmonious as could have been desired.

L. H. KELLOGG, Esq., the former President of the Board, took the chair and called the meeting to order; BENJAMIN NUTE acting as Secretary.

Mr. WM. YOUNG, from the committee which was appointed for the purpose of recommending established grades of wheat, reported in favor of establishing four different grades of spring, and two of winter wheat, namely:

1st, Extra Club Wheat;
2d, No. 1 " "
3d, " 2 " "
4th, " 3 " "
5th, No. 1 White Winter Wheat;
6th, " 2 " " "

Mr. YOUNG stated that the Committee were unanimous in favor of establishing those grades, samples of which could be seen at the warehouse of NEWHALL & CLARK. He also stated that there is so small a quantity of Red winter wheat, raised in the State, the Committee did not deem it expedient to establish any grade of that description; and they also concluded that it would be satisfactory to let whatever Fife wheat comes to market run in with the Club.

The report of the Committee was accepted, but it was resolved that before voting upon the adoption of the different grades, the samples selected by the Committee, should be exhibited at an adjourned meeting to be held to day.

The Committee which was appointed to ascertain the amount of wheat shipped from Chicago to this city, reported that they had ascertained from the Lake Shore Rail Road Company, that the total amount of Wheat which came over the road from Chicago, was 14,400 bushels, of which 4,470 bushels had been shipped to Buffalo, 4,750 were in store here, 2,700 in the cars, and the balance, about 3,600 bushels, sold here at prices not exceeding 55 cents per bushel. The report was unanimously accepted, and the Committee discharged.

Col. SAWYER wished to know if the Board were going to indict the city of Chicago. [Laughter.]

Mr. SMITH, from the committee appointed to report upon the propriety of re-organizing the Corn Exchange, and holding regular meetings, stated that the Committee were unanimously in favor of re-organizing the Board. Mr. SMITH said he had made some inquiry about procuring suitable rooms for the meetings of the Board, and that Messrs. D. P. HULL & Co. had offered the free use of their office, together with light and fuel, if the Board saw fit to hold its meeting there.—[Col. SAWYER desired to know if they wouldn't throw refreshments in. Laughter.]

Mr. SMITH also stated that Messrs. HORTON & FOWLER had rooms near the M. & M. Depot, which they would let to the Corn Exchange for $150 per annum, but it would take some time to fit them up ready for use. The report was accepted after some discussion, and it was decided to hold meetings for the present, at the office of Messrs. D. P. HULL & Co.

After a protracted discussion upon the financial condition of the old Board of Trade, which was consolidated with the Corn Exchange a year ago last June, a resolution was adopted that the "Corn Exchange do now withdraw itself from the Board of Trade."

A resolution was also adopted that the Chair appoint a committee of three to draft a Constitution and By-Laws, for the government of the Corn Exchange. The Chair announced as such committee Messrs. O. E. BRITT, L. J. HIGBY, and BENJAMIN NUTE. The committee are to report at a meeting to be held next Saturday evening.

The next subject which came before the meeting, was the question of appointing a Grain Inspector.

It was finally resolved, after talking the matter over thoroughly, that the Chair should appoint a committee of five, to report at a meeting to be held to-day, the name of a suitable person for an Inspector. The Chair appointed the following gentlemen as such committee:

WM. YOUNG, DANIEL NEWHALL, M. B. MEDBERRY, S. T. HOOKER and P. R. STORM. The Board then adjourned to meet to-day, at 12 o'clock. The appointment of an Inspector is a matter of great importance and it is therefore hoped that there will be a full attendance.

THE FESTIVAL AT ALBANY HALL.—The Festival at Albany Hall, Wednesday night, for the benefit of the Sisters' Hospital, was most successful, in every respect. In the early part of the evening there were at least one thousand persons in the hall and undoubtedly many who purchased tickets were not in attendance. The proceeds will not fall short, it is said, of $800. This is handsomely done, and speaks well for the liberality of our citizens, who always respond nobly when aid is required for the promotion of any worthy object. The Festival passed off in the most agreeable manner, and no doubt all who attended had not only the satisfaction of aiding a noble object, but enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent. The banquet, which had been prepared for the occasion, was served up in the Rotunda, adjoining the Albany, at about 11 o'clock. After supper, the dance was resumed, and kept up until a late hour.

A FINE VIEW OF THE STATE FAIR AND CITY OF MADISON.—We were shown, yesterday, a capital view of the State Fair Grounds, and also a sketch of the city of Madison, taken by Mr. FRANZ HOELZLHUBER, an excellent young artist of this city, while the recent fair was being held. The pictures are executed with much skill and were taken especially for Frank Leslie's illustrated newspaper. The Fair Grounds are shown to good advantage, with a beautiful view of the Firemens' Tournament and the Military Review. The thousands who attended the State Fair will recognize the accuracy of the picture. We congratulate Frank Leslie for having secured the services of so deserving an artist as Mr. HOELZLHUBER.

Vote of Thanks.

MESSRS. JERMAIN & BRIGHTMAN, Proprietors Daily Sentinel:—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association, of this City, held on Tuesday evening, October 12, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Board be and they are hereby tendered to Messrs. JERMAIN & BRIGHTMAN, SHARPSTEEN & LATHROP, WM. F. CRAMER, and S. M. BOOTH, for their liberality in furnishing, free of charge, to the Young Men's Christian Association, of this City, copies, each, of the Daily Sentinel, Daily News, Daily Wisconsin, and Daily Free Democrat; and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to them, respectively, by the Recording Secretary.

Very truly yours,

L. EVERINGHAM, Rec. Secty.

MESSRS. SCHUMACHER & JOHNSON'S BANK LOCKS.—The following is the editor of the Madison Patriot's opinion of the excellent Bank and Safe Locks, manufactured by Messrs. SCHUMACHER & JOHNSON, of this city, 1 sample of which was on exhibition at the State Fair, and received a prize. "PUMP CARPENTER," as it well known, is himself one of the most ingenious mechanics in the State:

We have seen and examined one of Schumacher & Johnson's Safe Locks. The one we inspected gave us a high opinion of the ample security against burglars which it affords. In its manufacture no precaution seems to have been neglected for frustrating the attempts of the most skillful burglar. No impression can be obtained of the key, as, when locking it, a brush inside the lock is acted upon, which is turned round, and makes all clean. It may be locked by thousands of changes. After locking it, the key may be altered; so that if it should be lost, any dishonest finder could make no use of it.

It is an ingeniously contrived lock, and only requires to be seen and understood, in order to give the conviction that it is a reliable and unrivalled lock. We are not surprised that it should have gained the first-class certificate at the late State Fair. We know that several of the leading mercantile houses in Milwaukee and other cities have had it attached to their safes in preference to any others.

THE GARDEN CITY A TOTAL LOSS.—We learn from the Chicago Democrat, that the Garden City with 1,800 barrels of salt and 66 tons of of car wheels, for Chicago, which went ashore on Tuesday night, on Little Point Sauble, is a total loss. On Sunday, the tug Salvor, Capt. KEARS, was sent to her assistance, with three steam pumps, and succeeded in floating her, and started for Grand River. She had only been towed about ten miles on her way, when she went to pieces and sank. Capt. K. succeeded, at the imminent peril of his tug, and of the lives of himself and crew, in saving two of the steam pumps, but the third and most valuable one, worth $2,000, was carried down with the sinking craft, and is a total loss, as she lies in twenty fathoms of water.

DANGEROUS COUNTERFEIT.—A very dangerous counterfeit $20 bill on the bank of the State of New York, of New York City, has just been put in circulation. The following is a description:

Viguette, Indian girl seated, leaning her arm on a rock and looking at rail-cars—steamboat and city in the distance; oval picture of a locomotive, with "20" above it, on the right end—unlike the genuine.

Fountain and Warren counties give republican gains.

There is a decreased vote on the republican State ticket in the fifth Congressional district.—The gain elsewhere will more than balance the loss in counties usually strong republican.

First Letter from the Gold Hunters.

CONSEJO GROVE, K. T., Sept. 24.

[We make the following extract from a letter sent to the Kansas city Journal of the 8th inst. The gold at Pike's Peak is likely to prove a humbug.]

* * * We have a train of some nineteen wagons, with perhaps 100 men and three ladies' every wagon well supplied and provisioned for the journey.

Thus far out we have progressed finely, losing one of our stock, and all the boys being in fine spirits. We have been met by several wagons returning from Pike's Peak, whose reports are rather discouraging. They showed us specimens which they brought from the mines, of the finest quality, but in very small particles, and they intermixed with the black sand so that it is difficult to distinguish between the gold and the sand. They exhibit it in a small goose quill and report it as the result of a summer's hard labor; believe that there is some gold there, but not in quantities sufficient to pay for mining. They were in the mines prospecting for nearly three months. These reports and statements are corroborated by others whom we have met and who advise us to return.

Thus you see the many conflicting statements which have already reached us. It was so in the first discovery of gold in California, and will always be so as long as new mines continue to be discovered.

Our boys, however, are nothing daunted or dispirited; all are determined to push on and prospect for themselves before returning. Nothing less will satisfy them. We were told that there was snow in the mountains to the depth of six inches in August. If the report be true, we may anticipate rather a severe winter. We are prepared, however, for the worst that may befall us. We have had no additional news beyond what you may have received.

Lecompotonism and Corruption Cleaned out—Ohio Stands Erect for Freedom.

Ohio has given her verdict on the course of the National Administration. The people have passed judgment on their faithless Lecompton representatives. The chief interest of the state at large, has centered upon the Congressional elections. The State ticket has been in a measure, lost sight of, though the Opposition candidates are undoubtedly chosen, and probably by a majority of from twelve to fifteen thousand.

In Hamilton county there was also a sharp contest for the local ascendency, resulting in a decisive defeat of the Buchanan Democracy.—The effect of this great revolution, on the future, imparts to it a consequence altogether beyond that of any other merely local contest and makes it a just cause for rejoicing to the Opposition every where. It is a defeat which will be sorely felt, even by the satrocst at Washington, and his minions in other States.—Cin. Gaz., 13th.

AT WORK.—We observe that about forty men are at work on this end of the line of the Watertown and Madison Railroad. This force will soon be increased, and the enterprise carried forward with all practicable speed. There is now a bright prospect of this Road being put in running order this fall, at least as far as Waterloo.—Watertown Democrat.

Col. Robinson's Address.

We publish in full, this morning, the address of Col. ROBINSON, editor of the Green Bay Advocate, recently delivered before the Editorial Convention at Madison. The subject of the discourse, the Power of the Newspaper Press, is one which affords a wide scope for reflection, and it is handled in a manner worthy of its author.—The address abounds in happy allusions and humorous hits, and we think will afford much pleasure to all who peruse it

The News and Free Labor.

The News, desirous of extricating itself from the predicament to which its derision of the noble sentiments of FRANK BLAIR reduced it, seeks to divert public attention by making an uncourteous attack upon the editor of the Sentinel.—This, however, will avail the News nothing in the eyes of an intelligent community. It must bear the just odium of endeavoring to degrade the cause of free labor, by advocating the maintainance and extention of slavery. It needs no words to prove that the existence of slavery is ruinous to the interests of the free white laborers. The appalling facts must be apparent to every body.

The most oppressed class in the whole country are the free laborers of the South, and the News, well aware of this, nevertheless exorts its deluded followers, day after day, to send men to Congress who will lend all their aid and influence to whatever measures the South may devise for the spread of slavery. In fact, the News openly acknowledges its admiration of slave labor. It says:

"There is too much labor performed by white men, and if the time shall ever come when every man is at liberty to decide how much labor he will perform, it will be the laboring man's millenium."

It is easy to see what the News means here, although that double-faced sheet has the discretion not to express itself in very explicit terms. The pro-slavery organ seeks to disguise its slave labor proclivities under the mask of sympathy for the laboring classes. It tells us that "there is too much labor performed by white men," and on this ground upholds and advocates the spread of slavery.

It seeks with its party leaders every where throughout the country, to impress upon the minds of the free laborers of the North the delusion, that the introduction of slavery into all the States, would relieve them from the duties which they have now to perform. How do the free laborers and mechanics of Wisconsin like such sentiments as these, expressed in plain English? The Democracy has sold itself out, body and soul, to the aristocrats of the South. It has betrayed its honest northern supporters, and sacrificed every interest entrusted to its care, at the dictation of a handful of southern oligarchs. But its treachery has been unmasked, and the day of reckoning is near at hand. The day is past when the Democracy could rally under its standard the masses of northern free laborers and mechanics, and we need but point to the result of the elections of Wednesday in Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio and Iowa, as ample evidence of this assertion.

"A Lie Well Stuck to,"

The News still seeks to make its readers believe that Senator Hammond of South Carolina, is not a member of it's party. The fact, however, of Senator Hammond's being a leading member of the Democratic party, is too notorious not to be known by every man in Wisconsin, however much the News may desire to repudiate its yoke-fellow at the present. It is an undeniable fact that the South has for years past, and does to-day, lead the Democracy in every national measure. Senator HAMMOND is one of those leaders, and we will again ask the free laborers and mechanics of this State to read what he says of them:

"Slavery is the natural and normal condition of the laboring man—white or black. The great evil of the northern free society is, that it is burdened with a servile class of mechanics and laborers unfit for self-government, and yet clothed with attributes and powers of citizens.—Master and slave is a relation in society as necessary as parent and child; and the Northern States will have to introduce it. The theory of free government is a delusion."

How do free laborers of Wisconsin, who still adhere to the Democracy, like to be told that they are "a servile class, unfit for self-government" and that too by one of the leaders of their party? However distasteful this may be to them, it is quite acceptable to the prominent men of their party. It was in compliment to the State represented by the man who uttered the abominable sentiments above quoted that the Democracy resolved to hold the next National Democratic convention at Charleston. It may be convenient for the News now, on the eve of election, to affect a repudiation of South Carolina, but mark when the Democracy carry that State (like the Dutch taking Holland,) at the next election, it will raise both hands and exclaim in the name of all the gods "a glorious Democratic victory!"

CORRECTION.—In the Sentinel's publication of Judge LARRABEE's letter, it makes him say, "I did not say if the entire slave population was set free," &c. The Judge said in his letter, "I did say if," &c. Sentinel please correct.—News of yesterday.

The error which the News points out was too glaring to be mis-understood by any person who read the letter. The word not was marked out in the proof but overlooked by the type setter.—The sentence referred to, would therefore read thus, corrected:

"In the course of my remarks upon the slavery issue, I did say if the entire slave population was set free, that the two races could not live together in a state of either social, or political equality."

The Power of the Newspaper Press.

Address, delivered before the Wisconsin Editors' and Publishers' Association, at its Second Annual Session, held at Madison, Oct. 5th, 1858, by Hon. Charles D. Robinson, Editor of the "Green Bay Advocate."

MR. PRESIDENT; AND GENTLEMEN OF THE WISCONSIN PRESS:—At your last—and first—Convention, held at Portage City, it was ordered that we should deliver an address at this, your present session. We were not there to demur, and there has been no intervening meeting to which an appeal from so ex parte a decree could be made. In an ordinary court of justice, such an extraordinary proceeding would not be tolerated; it being one of the first principles of common law that each party shall be represented; but beyond this organization we know of none higher—it is a court of last resort—the Tribunal of the Press, self-created and constituted, everywhere recognized and referred to. As one of its members, we suppose we ought to be the last to rebel against its mandates. But if there has been anything hard in that, it has brought its recompense. It has suggested a discovery, and furnished a subject. The much harped upon "Higby Law," which we have all talked about and none have defined, it seems evident now is the Press; and what more appropriate theme is there, if that be true, than that now and great Power?

If anything can be said here tending to fortify this last great power in civilized history—great because its basis is in the intelligence and freedom of the people—it is well that this convention has met here to-day. If the power of the Press is a correct one and deserves to be perpetuated, then we, the builders of it, ought patiently and modestly to study the rudiments of its architecture—not arrogantly as master workmen, drawing plans and directing its progress; but as the architects who fashion the foundations, and rear it upward with stone symmetrically upon stone, so that in after times, when we have passed away and our children's children are here in our places, it shall loom up grandly upon their sight, like an Egyptian Pyramid, of just proportions, pleasing to the eye, and withstanding the assaults of Time. It will be well to bear in mind that it ought to be a monument, consecrated to a lasting good, rather than a simple tower, upon which to escape the popular deluges which have swallowed up other human powers before; for, on the one hand, it will go successfully to completion, even to the statue of Fame upon its pinnacle; while, on the other, we may be stricken with dissensions, and finally disperse amid a confusion of tongues, the ridicule of the whole world.

Time was when there were no newspapers.—The books were "in the running brooks," and the "sermons were upon the stones." We dig up those old times now, with the help of Layard, and the rest, and we find histories cut into the walls, and the great deeds of men carved heavily upon arches and columns. There were no two parties then—no opposition newspapers.—Belshazzar had things pretty much in his own way. He commanded his stone cutters to set forth on the outer walls that he was the greatest man then or before, or to come thereafter; and there were no two opinions allowed about that. If his constituency wanted to know about him, they couldn't lie back upon their divans, sipping their morning coffee, and read from this paper what great and statesman-like things he had been doing, and from that one what a very consummate scoundrel and knave he was to be sure. No; if they wanted official intelligence of things going on at head quarters, they must travel there laboriously and respectfully, and they would find it bulletined upon the walls—the victories gained, the new laws passed, and all that.

It was the age of Force, then, and for a long time thereafter. Feudal chieftains, from their mountain fastnesses, ruled their people, formed their minds, and made their laws. The fleet horse traversed the country, but he carried no post bags; the swift lightnings came down as they now do, but were imbued with no intelligence. What neighbor told to neighbor, and he to his neighbor beyond, was the news of that time. The ship at sea gave no note of its coming until its long gone sail rounded into the bay at home. It was a craft gone down into the waters of Lethe and come back again. The soldier who went abroad to fight his country's battles, heard not from his friends under the old roof-tree, except from some new recruit;—and the gaunt horseman never brought the wailing maiden by the wayside, tidings of the fallen in the last fight. Those were the days when the great Intelligence and the great Power, second to but one—had not come. The sway of force, and afterward the reign of Priestcraft and Fanaticism, lasted through centuries. In that dreary time, the great mind of the world was as the earth before the creation; it hung chaotic in space, "without form and void." There was no great thought separated from matter. The dark horrors of the Inquisition rested as heavily upon the head and the tongue as they did upon the hand and the foot. The rack and wheel were not fashioned so much to break the body as the brain; and the fire was built around the stake, not to destroy poor flesh and blood, which was perishable and would soon resolve themselves back into clay to the harm of nobody, but to annihilate that freedom of thought which taking root and growing, would never die.

Men felt intelligence then only as we know the wonderful lightnings now. We see and feel their grand and mysterious power; we know that the principle of electricity impercolates everything, and we almost fall down and worship it as an unseen power upon which hangs each moment of our existence; but we know it not; we only hope that the drifting away of some great cloud, which now hangs like an impenetrable curtain between us and the sun, shall, ere long, let us look in upon its mystery. So the piled up masses of the olden time veiled intelligently for the unfolding of that great principle which even then pervaded all things—which they felt within them as something that foreboded a greater destiny; and they looked up with fear and hopefulness to the rending of that veil which was hung before the Temple of Thought.

It is remarkable that all great inventions spring upon the world in almost perfection. The Telegraph was as capable of practical use the day when Morse set it in operation as now, when it has become an institution of all enlightened lands. The steam engine may have been modified and improved, but it turned the wheel as powerfully then as now, and the fashioning of lettered blocks, by two men of low degree, in an obscure German town, toward the close of the fourteenth century, ushered into the world, full grown and perfect, the "art preservative of arts." Guttenberg and Faust, the high priests of knowledge, tore away at one grasp, the black mantle of superstition, and let in upon the world the sun rays of the Press. "God said let there be light, and there was light." He who, with His own hands, rolled up a sun above the dark waters of this chaotic earth, brought no more sudden and unfailing light than He ushered into existence through the hands of those two lowly men, His ministers. It was fitting, therefore, that this "Divine art" should be christened by Religion—that its first use should be the production complete, of the Sacred Book, the pattern of all books, the perfection of composition, the model of literature, the groundwork of all laws, the teacher of political economy, and the Pierian Spring, at whose depths of genius all the greatest and best writers have drunk so deeply.

We need not follow, from the beginning, the progress of the types and the press up to this day. Time will not permit, and there are few in this audience who are not familiar with their progress. We can all look back and catch sight of those grand headlands which jut out in the history of the Press. There are Gutteberg and Faust in the dim distance; their sharp, angular, Teutonic profiles will never be forgotten. There was Caxton, who brought the art to England—the gentleman of letters, as well as the proficient in mechanism. There was Lord Stanhope, who introduced iron presses; and Clarendon, whose name we have given to one of our handsomest types. There were Robert Stephens, Grafton, Copeland, Plantin, the Forbens of Germany, and the Aldi of Italy. We cannot count them all.—Nearer, upon our own shores, the eye falls upon the patron saint of the American Press, Benjamin Franklin, the Printer, the Statesman, the philosopher,—who, with Stephen Day, Bradford, and a few others, set up on these shores those presses whose progeny has overrun the whole land, and played their part in making our country what what it is—the freest and the greatest.

How much of the freedom and splendor of this Republic is due to the Press, and how much to gallant courage in the tented field and eloquence in the forum, it may not be deliceor here to inquire. It is enough to know that the Press is here, and is what it is. It is enough that the men kets and cannons of a great State like Wisconsin lie peaceably and undisturbed beneath one small roof under the shadow of this building, while the presses and types of the State are institutions almost in every neighborhood, side by side with the Free Schools. And our press is the fitting prototype of this Western World—It is no scion of aristocracy—no first son, inheriting wealth and power. Its strength is its own creation, gotten by its own merits and strong right arm. Its power dates not back to castles and strongholds, to knighthoods or to kingdoms; it has no ancestry, no legends, no coats of arms; it is the Genius of Progress—a young giant whose family records are yet unwritten. And we, whose fingers have fashioned the writings, and brought into line one after the other the leaden types which have given them shape, may well be proud of humbly ministering in the duty, grim Printing Office—the Temple of the Press. Few enough of us have seen the inside of Colleges, and fewer of us will be found to say anything against those institutions of learning, which may well be cherished; but how many there are in this room who owe a life-time of gratitude to that poor boy's college, the Printing Office! The college where the pupil is not only taught, but clothed and fed; and upon whose catalogues will be found the names, not only of an army of illustrious living, who will bear willing testimony to the efficacy of that training—but a host of glorious dead, the memory of whose deeds the world keeps forever green!

We would like to have had it in our power to give something like a history of the progress of the newspaper business in this State up to the present time. Personally, our advantages for making such a compilation have been very good, as we have been connected with the Press here almost since its establishment; but of late years we have been so engaged in other pursuits, that, with the rapid multiplication of new presses within a few years past, and the changes among the old ones, we almost feel like an old fireman who does not "run with the machine" any more. We have not seen, for a year past, a full list of newspapers in Wisconsin. Last year the Janesville Gazette published a list of one hundred and sixty-three, of which twenty were daily, sixteen semi or tri-weekly, and one hundred and twenty-four weekly. When we came to this State, then a Territory, but ten of all these were in existence. There were more than ten papers; but they have disappeared from the stage, or have changed names and proprietors. From Green Bay southward as far as Madison, so far as "the light of the press" was concerned, it was one dense darkness.

Our tall friend, Beriah Brown, was publishing his Democrat weekly in a small brick building here, which we have often looked for lately, but have not found. It was in the rear of the Capital House somewhere; and now, instead of the click of the typer, and the measured throbs of the hand press which made that spot classic ground, you would be likely to hear little else than discussions as to the speed of certain crack horses; and instead of political leaders and arguments, the disputes there are more likely upon bolts and heaves. John Y. Smith then published the Argus, and Mr. Wyman the Express. They were all tall men in those days. Our friend Atwood was then in the Express establishment, we believe. He is the only one of those times left at his post. In Milwaukee Gen. King was engaged in the Sentinel, and John A. Brown in the Courier. The Sentinel was the only daily in the Territory. Mr. Holt was publishing the Gazette, we believe, at Janesville—and he stands up to the rack yet. At about that time Mr. Wright commenced the publication of the Patriot at Prairie du Chien—a good, generous hearted man, who has gone to that happy land where delinquent subscribers never go. Then the Fond du Lac Journal sprang up, under the editorship of John O. Henning.

At Watertown our long time friend Hadley, (tall men all the while) started the Chronicle.—We well recollect our first visit to his office. He was working off his paper alone on an old fashioned Ramage press—two pulls to a side. That same old Ramage was the first press we ever saw, more than twenty-five years ago. It was then used to disseminate anti Jackson doctrines in Western New York. With variable fortunes, it finally became the property of a Fourierite society in Monroe county in that State, and when that bubble exploded, Hadley brought it West. Between anti-Jacksonism, Fourierism, and such principles as Hadley instilled into it, the old press had, in our way of thinking, a tempestuous and troubled life in this world, and in common gratitude its wooden frame ought to be buried with the honors of war, and its stone platen stuck up at its head to keep its memory forever fresh. It was the only Ramage we ever saw in Wisconsin, except a small one for jobbing, which we bought of Rufus King in 1847, for twenty dollars. We hired a teamster who was going to Green Bay to put it on his wagon; and when he brought it home, one of the wagon wheels had chafed nearly through the wooden frame. We set it up, though, and it did good work in printing blanks and election tickets until our office burned down a few years ago.

Good bye to the days of the Ramages! They have fled before the march of improvement, until their black and marred forms have withered out of sight, even as the dusky tribes whose fate is their counterpart. They had their day; and looking back upon it through the years of din and clatter which finally overwhelmed them, they wear a pleasant look, much like that we see in the old pictures—presses standing upon halos, with bright rays diverging from their illuminating such devices as "Freedom" and "Liberty." They are gone now forever into that wonderful Past which holdeth all things—all things but hope. If we might look in upon them, we should see their grim ghosts keeping company with the old politics of our fathers.—Anti-Masonry, National Banks and Nullification stalk strangely around in that political hades, and the Ramages are their attendant genii.

They figured through the grand days of the olden times. From the time when Benjamin Franklin used them at Boston and Philadelphia, until almost down to the present day, they formed a race which may be said now to be extinct. Many of you who are listening here to-day have never seen one; and if you ever do, it will look to you as the representative of a past typographical era, exhumed as we exhume the bones of a mastodon. You shall examine them scientifically, and fail to tell what sort of animal they were. Their great black jaws shall show you no teeth, and you may well wonder how they got their living. We will tell you. They were a sort of chameleon, and did feed on air;—a property which is in some sort inherited by many of our presses nowadays. They were the pack horses which bore the literature of Puritanic times, of the Revolution, and of the early days of the Republic. They bore the Blue Laws, the Declarations of Independence, and the Messages of the Presidents. And they gave us all our old books, newspapers and almanacs—good, bad and indifferent.

We can see, sitting here, men who are indebted to the Ramages for their Cobbs's Spelling Books, their Daboll's Arithmetics, and their Kirkham's Grammars. And all the newspapers of our boyhood, with their big types, sounding mottoes, labored arguments, and good old-style advertisements. Day & Martin made known their blacking then; Peleg White his Sticking Salve; Sickles his travelling Show—the grand Sickles, whose "Babes in the Woods" in gay puppet show, and whose wonderful violin, elevated to a horizontal line to escape his own funny corporocity, have led us many a moonlight tramp to witness at the next four corners. There's a monument raised in our heart to the memory of the princely old Sickles, who got so to knowing us after awhile that he patted us on the head and gave us a perpetual free ticket. We know that St. Peter, when the old showman arrived at the Celestial Gate, passed him without asking a question. But we forget. Steers made known his Opodeldoc, and some of the pioneers in the quack medicine line led the way with their remarkable pills; all the standard medicine, West India rum, bibles, razor strops, stage coaches, and clocks, were set forth duly with quaint cuts and quainter announcements. Those were the fossils of the Ramage age.

Though our theme here to-day is the Power of the Newspaper Press, we hope not to have departed from the subject if we have stepped aside and thrown an evergreen upon the mausoleum of the Past. The old Press is the memory of the Sense. It is embalmed in the most hallowed associations. We go back to it tenderly and lovingly, because it is the depository of its records there rests so much that is dear to us. It is studded with little white head-stones, telling here of a death, there of a marriage, sometimes of a birth. Dorcas, and Patience, and Ruth, who were our mothers, have their names inscribed there; and so have Jonathan, and Patrick, and Diederich, who were our fathers. They were married, and set sail upon the voyage of life together; and were it not for those undying types they would have made the journey and rotted their life away at unseen ports, or gone down into the sea of oblivion unnoticed, with no requiem forever but the minstrelsy of the ocean, which heeds not whoreof it sings. The old Newspaper was the Charon to whom they came, and who, with his plain old boat, set them across the dark river of forgetfulness into the memory-lighted realms which we are now so wont to ramble among.

The old presses are gone; and here in their stead we have those great "thought-executing" monsters with lungs of iron and breath of steam, which belch forth every day sheets enough to strew the land like Vallambrosian leaves. The day of small things is passed. The man who sits at his table with one of these presses at his command, can talk to an hundred thousand people. The lightning runs hither and thither upon its errands. The winds blow its messages to far countries, and to the isles of the sea. The car runs long and tireless upon its iron track with its burthens, and the gallant post-horse is its messenger to the hamlets and cottages of the backwoods. Even as yesterday, the frigates of two powerful countries, forgetting their trade of war, were upon the great deep, peacefully laying down an international highway whose principal terminal must be the Press. Round and round the world, daily, it heaves the continents of man, washing away their old prejudices, even as the tides of the sea roll through ocean after ocean and keep them pure. Round and round the world, like "a serpent with its tail in its mouth, the emblem of eternity."

If the press be the great heart which daily sends thought and intelligence throbbing through the pulse of the civilized world, behooves it not for us that we keep it healthy and pure? Does that ocean wave which the moon sends daily around the globe, washing the shores of hemispheres, and seeking out the stagnant waters everywhere, come with fever and miasma in its touch? Does the blood which is driven through these veins from the seat of life, bring poison with it? None the less should the Press be pure. For every one family in this land which gets its literature from the shelves of a library, there are an hundred who get it from the newspaper. The prose and the poetry, the politics and the news, the commercial and market business of the newspaper, are the world of letters to more people than you suppose. The pretending daily which comes from your cities, and the steady weekly which comes from the country, have each their scholars.

There is no paper, ever so grand or so humble, ever so high-toned or so wicked, which is not, somewhere, the only printed sheet which comes to a home, and the standard by which the inmates there judge of the word of life and of letters. In the log cottage out upon the prairies, or away in the woods, scattered along the highways and byways of this State, the one paper comes regularly; and by the winter night's fireside, or in the summer twilight, when the day's work is done, the husbandman and the housewife and the little ones who are growing up to take their places and our places, gather together and look through it out into the broad world beyond. If it be faulty in badly constructed or ungrammatical language, if it be shifting or unsettled in politics, better that the man calling himself an editor, who sent it, had kept to his proper calling on the dock or in the stable. If it be turbid with details of wickedness, or sneering and careless of morals, better that that man had a millstone around his neck and sunk to the bottom of the sea, for a generation will be tainted with its bad lessons. Those little learners will gather more of the ways of life from it than from the pulpit or the district school; and they will go forth, by and by, and be in the workshop or in the office, on the farm or in the Legislative Halls, what that newspaper has taught them are the ways of men in those places.

Time was when books did all this; but that is past. The Newspaper is the literature of the land now, and trifling with its character is trifling with the character of the Nation for a full generation to come.

In that good time which is always represented as "coming," we hope to see the Editors better bestowed than they are now. We hope to see some of that value which they invariably bring to the real estate of their several localities, some of that prosperity which they draw to trade and commerce, and some of that ease and wealth which they aid their neighbors in amassing, transferred to themselves. We shall expect to see them escape from what some writer has well expressed it, the dead-headism of corporations, societies, and individuals; of the pulpit, the bar and the stage. We shall hope to see it have done giving strength to weak institutions, covering up infirmities, hiding weaknesses, heralding quacks, bolstering up dull authors and flattering the vain; in short, lubricating the wheels of society, without fee or reward. We shall expect to see the Press well clear of begging politicians, of corrupt office holders, of unscrupulous speculators, and all the horde of leeches who crowd around it now, crying "give, give."

The Editor, in that grand time which we can see in the mind's eye, will be a round and ruddy gentleman, sitting with his wife and little ones under his own vine and fig tree. He shall look around the comfortable homestead and the fair acres, and say, "these are the fruits of my labors!" He shall be a man of independence, of great patience, and passable honesty; but the greatest of these will be independence. He shall long for no office, receive no presents, and be the mouth-piece of no man or number of men. He shall look his neighbor full in the face, owing him nothing. He will, as Southey describes such an one, be "a man of robust and healthy intellect, who gathers the harvest of literature into his barn, threshes the straw, winnows the grain, grinds it in his own mill, bakes it in his own oven," and then gives it abroad among his neighbors, the true bread of knowledge.

With editors like these, the power of the Press, already so great and overwhelming, will purify, strengthen, and become the great arm of the nation. It will never wane and decay as have feudal rule, despotism, priestcraft, and superstition; but as a house which is built upon the rock, the floods may come, and the storms may beat upon it, but it will not be washed away. And in after ages, if the Union is numbered with the Roman Republic among the things of the past, as having fostered and fallen of suppon and corrupted foundations, let us hope that history will bear the record that the Press was the pillar of strength which upheld it to the latest hour. God forbid that the time shall ever be a history of a fallen Republic on this soil; but may the American people and their free institutions grow and be perpetuated with succeeding ages, until when the great trump is sounded, there shall be but one nation, which, starting with the morning sun, gathered breadth and force as it swept along its westward march of empire, and circling the globe, reached its eastern shores again, with every tongue and every people formed together under its glorious banner, as the one free and enlightened Christian Nation of the Earth.

Think of It, Working Men.

The Government under James Buchanan has cost the people, during the last fiscal year, a little over one hundred million of dollars, about equal to three dollars and a half to every man, woman and child, rich or poor, black, white or mixed in the country! Rather an expensive Democracy.

Laboring men now receive, on an average throughout the country, under present democratic system—about 50 cents a day or $150 a year. The government spends a hundred millions a year principally to feed and fatten a large army of office holders. This sum amounts to as much as the earnings of over half a million of laborers—is it a wonder that the times are hard?

While the Government officers receive about 33 per cent. more than ever before, the working men of the country get 33 per cent. less!—What a glorious thing this Buchanan Democracy is!

James Buchanan in 1840, declared in the U. S. Senate that he should "reduce our homical to the real standard of prices throughout the world," and then would "cover the country with benefits and blessings." Buchanan is now President, and the work of "reducing" has already commenced. If the working men like it, all they have to do is to vote the democratic ticket.—Anthracite Gaz.

TIFFANY & CO.,

No. 550 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Announce that they have secured the Entire
Atlantic Telegraph Submarine
CABLE!

Now on board the U. S. Frigate, Niagara.

IN ORDER to place it within the reach of all classes, and that every family in the United States may possess a specimen of this wonderful mechanical combination, they propose to cut the Cable into pieces four inches in length, and mount them neatly with brass fern cs.

Each piece will be accompanied with a copy-righted fac simile certificate of that it is cut from the genuine cable. Twenty miles of it have been laid on the bed between and taken up from the bottom of the Ocean. This will be the only genuine specimen in the condition in which the great Cable now lies in the bed of the Atlantic.

Orders are received from dealers and others for not less than 100 pieces at a time, at $25 per hundred. Retail price 50 cents each.

The Cable will also be sold in the condition in which it came from the factory in lengths of 60 feet and over at 25c cents per foot. Smaller quantities at 31 per foot.

Each order must be accompanied with the money, in funds current in New York, as it will not be possible to open accounts.

CAUTION.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24th, 1858.

GENTS. TIFFANY & Co.—Gentlemen:—At your request and in justice to you I am bound to state, that I disposed of the entire balance of the Atlantic Cable, on the U. S. steam frigate "Niagara," to your firm, and that if any other party claims to have any portion thereof, it must either have been procured from you, or from the small specimens which were distributed on board before the Cable was laid, which contain exactly as much as is worthy of notice.

There is a peculiar interest attached to the Cable which you have bought—twenty miles of it were actually submerged in the deep sea, and received, while through all of its length electric signals were being transmitted, during the whole of the time occupied in laying the cable.

Of course any quantity can be manufactured in England, and such, probably, will have been circulated in this country, but to few, if any of these, attaches the peculiar value which the cable purchased by you possesses, from the fact that it were part and parcel of the cable which is now actually laid.

I remain, gentlemen very truly your friend,

WINE CROP IN FRANCE.—Of the wine crop in France the Paris correspondent of the London Times, reports:

The vintage has commenced in the neighborhood of Lyons and in part of Burgundy under the most favorable circumstances. The grape in the Bordelais, the Orleanais, Berry, and Touraine are rapidly arriving at maturity. There are few complaints of the oidium in those districts.—The wine-growers in the district of Beaune propose to commence their operations to-morrow, the 28th. The result of the vintage in several districts of the Department of the Ain is now known, and has given universal satisfaction.—The quality of the wine is excellent, and the quantity much greater than was expected. One small vineyard produced 19 hectolitres, where the proprietor expected eight at most. The same result has been experienced throughout the department. The vintage is fixed for the 26th at Bordeaux and Blayo.

The proprietors in these districts complain that the grapes have suffered from want of rain. The accounts from Nantes and Poitou state that the vines are extraordinarily rich, and that an abundant crop is expected. The proprietors at Montpellier, Nimes, Perpignan, and, in fact, throughout the Province, are described as overjoyed; they have not, for many years past, carried so rich a crop to the wine press. Wine still maintains its price at the market of Bercy. Brandies have given no sign of life for the last week.—Accounts from Cognac state that, all demand from abroad having ceased, holders of brandy have been forced to lower their tone. New brandy is quoted at from 100 to 105f. the hectolitre, without the cask, and champagne brandy at 130f. Spirits from Languedoc have declined to 66f. the hectolitre in the Paris market. Beet-root Spirit is quiet, at 51f. for delivery.

AN INTERESTING CIRCUMSTANCE.—As we were coming down Forest street one evening last week, eyeing with wonder the Comet's blazing train, we were arrested by a voice from behind a neighboring wood pile, pouring forth his woes in a dolorous tone—"O! mein Gott! mein Gott! don let der Comet strike, O, Gott! Ich bin nich long von Deutschland, und can nicht ver goot English sprechen, but put der Comet out. O! mein Frau, und mein kinder. O! ven I vas only in Deutschland staid, vare dey hat no Comets. O! Ich vants to leave dis lands." We interrupted his meditations and assured him there was no danger to be entertained from the Comet; and he left us greatly relieved, muttering that "he dought der plasted ting vas going to shtrike und knock der Eart all ter smash."—Central Wisconsin, Oct. 7.

I AM GLAD TO SEE YOU.—Somebody says that there are more lies told with that "I am glad to see you," than with all the other sentences in the language. Somebody is just about right. We have seen a man run four squares out of his way to get away from a friend, and meeting the friend after all, he said "I am glad to see you." He lied just as much as if he had reported the moon made of green cheese, or declared himself a man of truth. We know an individual who always meets other individuals with the sweetest and blandest of voices, "I am delighted to meet you," who, the moment he turns away, ejaculates emphatically, "Go to thunder!" as if directing his speech to the ones he was just so delighted to meet. In order to be polite, one has very often, to tell untruths; little "white lies" are as current among polite people as gold dollars all over.

SOMETHING AGAINST A RAINY DAY.—The New York Herald says that Christina, the Queen Dowager of Spain, has agents in this county who control the investment of two millions of dollars here on her account. The same paper states that most of the crowned heads of Europe are doing an active business in the way of investments in the United States. Louis Philippe had large possessions in our Republic, and Louis Napoleon has sent from three to five millions here to be invested by his agents. It is said that the greatest operators here are the petty princes of Germany, whose investments in American securities amount, it is believed, to fully fifty millions of dollars.

DR. KNAPP,
RECENTLY OF N. Y., may be consulted at his Rooms, Walker House, Milwaukee, the first week in every month, commencing Nov. 1, in regard to all diseases, which he treats with unprecedented success. He cures chronic cases of 4 years, which have been pronounced incurable by the Medical Faculty generally, such as Nervous and Neuralgic Affections, Diseases of Women, all forms of Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Bronchial Diseases, Cancerous and Tuberculous Affections, including Pulmonary Consumption, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Epilepsy, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, the diseases of Children, &c. All the vorms and most of the sufferings of child birth are removed by early consultation.
Remember, that the Doctor does not promise to cure all stages of Diseases. While ALL diseases are curable, if taken in season, all stages are not. Those that are curable this week, not next—to-day, not to-morrow, hence the danger of delay. sept27d269d1w1y

TO THE PUBLIC.
In answer to the numerous letters addressed to me on the subject of the Mustang Liniment, I would say that I have had no connection with that article for several years. It was invented by me, and while out up under my control and supervision, was universally accepted by the public, as the best liniment in the world. In 1851 I sold out my interest in it to other parties, and since that time it has passed through the hands of several persons, some of whom have, from time to time, made such manufacture of inferior and cheaper quality as to entirely destroy its value as a medical remedy, causing for ruppers in selling to its former highly established reputation. The present proprietors have gone so far as to substitute other articles in the composition for those in the original prescription, so that the Mustang Liniment now vended possesses no one of the distinguishing characteristics of the genuine article. I first originally invented and manufactured by me. The entire, to enable themselves with more facility to feist their worthless and injurious compound upon the public, use my name as its sponsor, calling it "BAGGS'S" Mustang Liniment, and cautioning the public to beware of any other "Bagg's Liniment as an imposition. This is done with a view of palming off their worthless stuff as "BAGGS'S AROTIC LINIMENT," an article more recently invented by me, and possess'd all the virtues of the original Mustang, with some improvements—the result of experience and later discoveries—and now secured by Brags & Burrowes, which term is composed of my son, Oliver T. Bragg, and Michael Burrowes. This article is superior to any rospects to the Mustang, when it was put up pure and in its strength, and is unquestionably superior to the article now vended as the Mustang Liniment. It is also the only liniment manufactured to which my name is approved by my authority or consent. In conclusion, I cannot help but express my sympathy for the evil results of using the Mustang Liniment now vended, and especially after this public disclaimer of any connection with the proprietorship or manufacture.
Respectfully, J. M. BAGGS.

R. R. R.
On the 1st day of September, 1858, Mr. Charles Randolph called at the R. R. R. office, and stated that for ten years he had not enjoyed a single meal. He had not, for five years, had a natural discharge from his bowels; but was obliged to resort to injections, &c. He was pale, haggard and thin. We ordered Radway's Regulator, one each night, and Radway's Resolvent three times per day. On the eighth of September he called upon us. He was so altered that we knew him not.
His appetite is good—his digestion easy—his skin moist and healthy—his step elastic and buoyant—his body vigorous; and his eye indicates a man of health and energy.
For Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Difficulties of the Urethra and Bladder, Radway's Regulator and Renovating Resolvent are a quick and a positive cure. For all Ashes and Pains, for Neuralgia and Rheumatism, for Nervous and Bilious Complaints, Radway's Ready Relief is quick and effectual. In five minutes' time after its application, the patient is free from pain.
R. R. R. is sold by C. G. HASKINSON, BOSWORTH & SON, L. F. LINK, and J. H. TYSON, Milwaukee, and by Druggists everywhere. oct11d4awlw

FASHIONABLE RESORTS.—Gentlemen and their families would do well in their summer trips to the South, Lake or Ocean, to visit Cape May or other fashionable places, to bear in mind that their valuable chest needs an addition, without which it would be incomplete. We refer to the justly celebrated ELECTRIC OIL of Prof. Ohms De Grait. We say celebrated, for the very reason that it performs in most cases what it is intended for—
Bruises, Sprains, Swellings, Colts, Burns, Scalds, Toothache, Earache, Headache, Corns, Scrofula, Erysipelas, Sores and Pains, internal and external.
Certificates continually come in; a number have been received this week, and I enumerate a few of the complaints cured:
Ask Mr. Watkins, of Lynchburg, if Charles De Graft's Electric Oil did not cure him of Rheumatism and sprains received from a fall.
Ask Rev. Mr. Caldwell if it did not relieve him of a severe cough and pains in the breast in one night.
Ask Mr. Wood, of Buchanan, if it did not cure him of swelled glands in the throat in fifteen minutes, when the doctors said he would die in a short time.
Ask Mrs. Argyle if it did not relieve her of the headache in fifteen minutes.
Ask Mr. Blackford, of Lynchburg, if it did not cure her of headache in fifteen minutes.
This Oil is mild, pleasant and harmless—its properties are all for good—children should have it given to them for teething and for croup. Beware of base imitations, fessing to make Electric Oil. They know nothing of its true character, but only care being to get money! Look out! Beware! The only genuine is made at the old establishment, 89 South Eighth street, Philadelphia; not removed as advertised by a base scamp. Name on the wrapper and bottle unchanged.
Druggists and agents must address their orders to Professor Charles De Graft, at his long established store, No. 89 South Eighth Street, a few doors below Chestnut.
☞For Sale by Farrar & Trow, 5 and 7 N. Third st., Milwaukee; Fahnstock & Davis, and Reed & Co., Chicago; and by Druggists and Merchants generally throughout the country. oct14d1awlw

G. SINSHEIMER,
SOLE PROPRIETOR AND MANUFACTURER OF
PURE OHIO
Catawba Brandy.
THIS Brandy has been manufactured for several years from the pure juice of the Catawba Grape, thus affording additional evidence, of the progress of American enterprise and industry, and of our ability to produce articles at home, equal to those made by any other nation.
The Ohio Catawba Brandy, not only equals but excels the best imported Brandies, in purity and flavor. It is in fact the best Brandy known. This statement is fully corroborated by the certificates of one most distinguished and skilful chemists.
The want of pure brandy has long been felt in this country, and the existence of an article of such quality as to supersede the sale and use of those vile compounds hitherto sold under the name of Brandy, can only be regarded as a great public good. The Catawba Brandy possesses all the good qualities claimed for the best imported liquors, and is of perfect purity and superior flavor, and a sovereign and sure remedy for
